of the ways of the Colony and of the English language. As a sample of how newly arrived immigrants are treated by their importors it is stated in the Straits Times that a recent investigation showed that some seventy men had been confined in a house near Hill Street, Singapore, owing to their inability to pay what their gaolers claimed as passage money, This sum the immigrants declared, doubtless with perfect truth, to be five times the amount they were told they would be charged in China. They further alloged that they had been beaten and half starved. latter charge may be true enough, but the other is probably an exaggeration. It is very plain, however, that the new Immigration Ordinance was not passed a day too soon. The complaints of these coolies are to be investigated, and it is to be hoped that, if they are substantiated, the crimps will receive the punishment they merit. Under the Immigration Ordinance it will be more difficult for unscrupulous Chinamen to prey upon their you going to remain, in the house F". countrymen.

Chinese immigration has recently been invited to Sooloo, but according to a correspondent at that place, it must be limited to the respectable classes or it will not be acceptable. The Spaniards would have no objection to receive a few thousand industrious Chinese of unblemished character and possessed of a what have the police come to the house for?" little capital, but they do not desire to have me, "What does the Italian want?" Russia is evidently in earnest, and the Turks are equally determined to resist. Latterly the fortune of war has gone most decidedly in favour of the Sultan's army. To what cause this is due cannot. from the telegrams, of course be guessed, but it is very probable that it is partly owing to the fact that the Turkish army is largely officered by foreigners, some of them of known and proved military skill. In every direction the Turks have been triumphant—in Montenegro, on the Danube, and in Asia Minor. Of course there is no saying how soon the tide may turn, but in the meantime the spirits of the Turks must have been raised with the natural result that they would be less inclined to make any concession to their aggressive foe. Russia, on the other hand, smarting under her recent losses and defeats, is doubtless more eager than ever to obtain. revenge on the Turks, and will redouble her efforts to retrieve the ground she has lost.

SEVERE GALE AT YOKOHAMA. The Japan Gazette of the 12th inst. has the ollowing: -- Yesterday evening a severe gale comnenced lasting until early this morning. The owest reading of the barometer on shore was 29.35 at about half past ten p.m.; and the storm was at its height shortly after that hour. Although several fences were everthrown ome chimneys blown down, portions of roofs and erandahs carried away, and plaster stripped off he sides of houses, we hear of no personal injury having been sustained by anyone on shore. One house on Ishikawa hill, occupied by Japanese, was unroofed, and buildings of the Old British Legation suffered considerably. Two or three small native-built houses at Noge were almost

On Whit-Sunday, there was a great stir amongst the native community of Batavia owing to the birth of a wonderful child whose parents were natives dwelling at Krokat. That child had a head with two faces, one of which was fully, but the other less, developed. It had four natural arms, which lacked nothing and which had grown naturally from the shoulders. Furthermore, the child had four legs with four feet which were however, all misshapen, while it could not be ascertained to what sex this monster belonged Naturally, the lucky parents were visited by immense numbers of curious persons, who, all of them, though some more and others less, presented gifts, so much so that the parents suddenly became well-to-do people from this occurrence It was a pity, however, that the child did not live, otherwise its exhibition would certainly have been a gold mine for them. The sale of the corpse might have yielded them a nice amount. us a physician at Batavia offered them 100 guilders for it. The offer, however, came to nothing, owing to the obstinucy of the father. who thought that the child ought to be buried.-Translated by the Singapore Times from Java

The Batavia authorities might give us some very demand for good sound security would be likely to useful or industrious individuals, and to exclude the roughs and robbers from China who land in thousands in other quarters of the world. No one of them should be allowed to land, or stay in the place, who cannot prove that he is a Northern, or a bond fide trader, and can produce some respectable security to that effect. Rascality should be sent back or away by the vessel which brought it, and this plan being strictly enforced might soon act as a preventive or deter ferers and reprobate adventurers. The utmost strictness should be observed in imposing suchenactments, otherwise the low Chinese are very smart in slipping through the mashes of almost any laws. If they become too numerous in Socioo they might ultimately plot and combine with the natives in the neighbouring islands or country. as they did formerly with the natives in Java, causing immense loss of life and property, and bence that strict supervision under which they are now held at Batavia. In reflecting on the gulations regarding the Chinese element of the population at Manila may be strict and suitable for that place generally; but as Scoloc is declared. a free port and immigration specially encouraged the aituation becomes so peculiar and so different from that in any other portion of the Philippines, as to have called forth the foregoing remarks, and it may probably be judged expedient by the authorities to make special rules and regulations

Many boxes of letters are received at the Post Office not sealed, that is to say, the box is fastened with sealing wax, but there is no impression of a seal. . The attention of boxholders is called to the necessity of carefully scaling such boxes with some recognisable seal, and of sending a chitbook or receipt with them. The omission of the latter precaution leaves a doubt as to whether the contents of the box ever reached the Post Office; the omission of the former, as to whether part of them might not have been abstracted for the sake of the Postage Stamps. COMMUNICATION WITH BATAVIA. The Netherlands India Packets leave Singapere fortnightly, and are fitted to the arrival of the outward P. & O. THE VINE IN PORTUGAL. The vine in the Minho district is grown on pollarded oak and chestnut trees and on trellises. It is pruned when the supporting tree is cut back in winter, and gets no cultivation but what it shares with the cron growing beneath it. The vine strikes itsroots so far into the soil that it probably does no harm beyond the slight injury caused by the shade of its dense foliage in summer. The vine gives a harsh, darkcolored grape, and the wine is of the kind known as "green wine!" and rarely keeps sound a whole twelvementh. It is a rough, harsh, acid wine, of powerful flavor, and exceedingly disagreeable to those who are not accustomed to its use. The wine-making is as simple as that process can be; the grapes are gathered in the middle of September, thrown into stone vats or into wooden tubs and trodden out by one or more men. The whole mass of skins, must, and stalks is left together to ferment, and when it has distinctly arrived at the vinous stage of that process the liquid is drawn into casks, to be left, loosely bunged, till the cold weather in November checks the sub-fermentation, which continues after the wine has left the press. The wine then deposits some of the matter held by it in solution and in suspension, and becomes clear. It is the custom to leave the wine on its lees. It is fit to drink assoon as it is clear, but goes on improving until the following autumn, beyond which time its preservation is doubtful.—New Quarterly Magazine,
